Worksheet A-1: Direct, Indirect, and Reflexive Pronouns

Direct Object Pronouns

me	me	nos	us
te	you (familiar)	os	you (familiar plural, Spain)
lo	you (formal), him, it masculine	los	you (familiar and formal), them masculine
la	you (formal), her, it feminine	las	you (familiar and formal), them feminine

- ① Direct objects are the receiver of the action and answer the question “who” or “what” in reference to the verb.
Hilda lee el libro.      Los niños comen la fruta.      Él compra la cerveza.
- ② If the direct object is a person, a group of persons, or a pet, then the personal a must precede it. The words a and el together contract to al.
María baña al bebe.    Antonio ve a sus niños.      Yo oigo a mi madre.
- ③ The direct object pronoun replaces the direct object noun to avoid repeating the direct object and is placed before the verb.
Hilda lo lee.      Los niños la comen.      Él la compra.
- ④ In the case of compound verb forms, the direct object pronoun may go either before the conjugated verb or attached to the infinitive form of the verb or the present participle. Upon attaching the reflexive pronoun to the present participle, an accent mark must be added to the stressed vowel.
Vamos a ver a ella.    Alicia quiere ver a él.      Estoy limpiando los espejos.
La vamos a ver.      Alicia lo quiere ver.      Los estoy limpiando.
Vamos a verla.      Alicia quiere verlo.      Estoy limpiándo los.

Mi madrastra me compra la ropa.      Le escribo las cartas a la revista.

- ⌚ Reflexive verbs state what someone does “to” or “for” herself or himself.
- ⌚ Reflexive verb pronouns refer back to the subject of the sentence; they agree with the subject of the verb.
- ⌚ When talking about parts of the body or articles of clothing, use definite articles such as el, la, los, and las.
- ⌚ Reflexive pronouns are equivalent to the English pronouns myself, yourself, himself, herself, ourselves, yourselves, and themselves.
Se ducha antes de acostarse.                   Te quitas los zapatos cerca de la puerta.
- ⌚ Infinitive verbs with -se attached are the reflexive form of the verb.
prepararse      dormirse      darse cuenta de (to realize)
- ⌚ The reflexive pronoun goes before the conjugated verb. ## Worksheet A-4: Direct, Indirect, and Reflexive Pronouns

R.I.D.

Reflexive, Indirect Object Pronoun, Direct Object Pronoun

- ⌚ When there are two object pronouns in a sentence, they will appear in the R.I.D. order: reflexive, indirect, and direct.
- ⌚ Two is the maximum number of pronouns that can occur in a sentence together. The combinations that may occur are reflexive-indirect (rare), reflexive-direct, or indirect-direct.
- ⌚ Keep in mind that object pronouns are used in referring to previously mentioned information in paragraphs and conversations.

Reflexive-Direct

Me lo pongo.	Tus uñas son bonitas.	¿ Te las pintas a menudo?
I put it on.	Your fingernails are pretty.	Do you paint them often?

Indirect-Direct

Sara me los mandó.	Me lo dijo.	Te las venden.
Sara sent them to me.	She said it to me.	They sell them to you.

- ⌚ If both the direct and indirect object pronouns occur together in the third person (lo, la, los, las – le, les), then change the indirect object pronoun to se.

Manolo le vendió el carro a Gloria.	Lucas les regaló las flores a Los Garcia.
Manolo se lo vendió.	Él se las regaló.

- ⌚ In sentences using compound verbs, the same order, R.I.D., applies in the placement of the pronouns. The object pronouns may either be placed before the conjugated verb or attached to the infinitive.
